ADVANCING CARE. HERE.
Greetings from OSP,

We look forward to a time when our support groups and programs can return to the Reuner Cancer Support House since we miss seeing you in person and know you miss one another as well! Until we are certain of your safety in relation to COVID-19, we are holding almost all our groups through the Zoom online platform or by phone. We are delighted that so many of you are participating in this way. During this time, our staff continues to be available to offer individual support, so please don’t hesitate to give us a call. Our team has actually expanded to include two graduate interns, James and Sara, who are also looking forward to meeting and supporting you.

If you have stopped by the HealthAlliance Hospital, Mary’s Ave. campus (formerly Benedictine), you will see that construction is underway to create a renovated hospital. For now, most services except the Infusion Center are at the Broadway campus but will be returning once the renovation is complete. We thank all those who are working so hard to create a newly improved hospital to better meet our community’s needs.

As you can see by this newsletter, OSP continues to offer a rich array of support groups, wellness, healing arts and educational programs. We are even hosting, via Zoom, our annual holiday celebration and a community reading by our memoir groups. If you need our assistance learning how to use Zoom, please give a call and we will walk you through the steps.

We hope you stay safe and look forward to connecting with you in the months to come.

Ellen Marshall, MS, LCSW-R, OSW-C, Director of the Oncology Support Program

Greetings from OSP,

Hello! I’m so glad to be interning at the Oncology Support Program this Fall. I am currently pursing my Masters of Clinical Mental Health Counseling at Antioch University and I am at the end of my second year. What fascinates me about counseling are the connections we make with one another and how, through awareness and kindness, we can help each other face our challenges. I look forward to learning how this relates to life at OSP and to sharing that journey with you all. Thank you so much for giving me this opportunity.

—Sara Loughlin

Hello! I am entering the final year of Fordham University’s MSW program as a Palliative Care Fellow. I entered the program following a career in film, television, and radio production (as well as a period of being a stay-at-home parent of two kids), in the hopes of finding a more meaningful professional challenge. I was drawn to social work in large part because of the way it puts a premium on the individual’s understanding of one’s life, experiences, and the future one wishes to have.

I think this commitment is especially present in palliative care’s holistic approach to working with people facing serious illness. People are more than their diagnoses and by placing social, mental, and spiritual needs on equal footing with medical status, the palliative care approach reflects my values around individual choice and diversity. I’m grateful for the opportunity to learn at OSP and can’t wait to get started!

—James Askin

A group for individuals with advanced stage or recurrent cancer who wish to explore pathways to a more fulfilling and meaningful life.

Testimonials below written by members of the “What Really Matters” support group, which has changed its name.
By renaming the group, we hope to better describe who we are and encourage new members to join us.

As a 2-year survivor of stage IV Lung Cancer, I was (initially) terrified, confused, and in need of emotional support. I needed help spiritually, to learn as best I could to face mortality on my own terms and to live well despite my diagnosis. This group is an oasis of compassion and helped me to find acceptance. ~Josh C.

I am encouraged to continue to work toward my purpose of being...no matter what my state of health is. ~Kristy B.

It is inspiring to realize I’m not alone on this dark journey but can continue to live and prosper and especially, think positively. ~Susan N.

In a safe loving setting, we are able to share our experiences facing serious illness and the fear and insecurity that often accompany that journey. ~Janine M.

NOVEMBER IS LUNG CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

SHOULD YOU BE SCREENED FOR LUNG CANCER?

Talk to your healthcare provider to find out if lung cancer screening is right for you.

WHAT IS LUNG CANCER SCREENING?

Lung cancer screening is a regular preventive health check, like a mammogram or a colonoscopy. A lung cancer screening checks your lungs while you are healthy and looks for any changes from year to year. If there’s something unusual in the lungs, a screening may be able to find it at an early stage. A lung cancer screening can find something before you know it’s there and before you have symptoms. Survival rates are better when lung cancer is found at an early stage.

If your doctor recommends lung cancer screening, it doesn’t mean he or she thinks you have cancer. In fact, most people who get screened do not have cancer.

WHO SHOULD GET SCREENED FOR LUNG CANCER?

Screening is recommended for people who are at high risk. Patients at high risk meet all of the following criteria:

- Are 55 to 80 years old
- Are currently smoking or have quit within the last 15 years
- Have a smoking history of ≥30 pack-years (multiply number of cigarette packs smoked per day by number of years you have smoked.)

RISK FACTORS FOR LUNG CANCER:

Risk factors can be activities that people do, things in the environment, or genetic traits. If one or more risk factors applies to you, it does not mean you will get lung cancer. It just means lung cancer screening might be a good option. Some people who have none of the risk factors still get lung cancer.

The known risk factors are:

- Tobacco smoking
- Contact with radon (a radioactive gas found in nature.
- Contact with asbestos or other cancer-causing agents
- History of cancer
- Family history of lung cancer
- History of COPD or pulmonary fibrosis
- Second-hand smoke (not considered a risk factor by itself)

LUNG CANCER SCREENING:

An LDCT scan is recommended as part of a yearly health check for people at high risk for lung cancer.

A study of more than 53,000 patients, called the National Lung Screening Trial, showed the benefit of screening with LDCT. It found that lung cancer screening with LDCT reduced the number of deaths in patients compared with a chest 4X-ray.

During the screening, an LDCT scan creates a detailed 3-D picture of your lungs. While this scan will expose you to a low dose of radiation, LDCT uses 75% less radiation than a traditional CT scan and shows more detail than a standard chest X-ray. An LDCT scan is the only method recommended for lung cancer screening.

QUITTING SMOKING:

Tobacco Smoking is the biggest risk factor for lung cancer and it is a modifiable risk. Smoking accounts for 8.5 out of 10 lung cancer deaths. Quitting smoking is one of the most important steps that you can take for your health but it isn’t easy. Fortunately, there is help out there! Go to: smokefree.gov & BeTobaccoFree.gov
